With a friendly smile and a willingness to jump in and help when needed, it's no surprise that Jamie enjoys working in groups to solve construction-related problems. Whether it's a construction issue or delivering produce from his family's farm to his co-workers, he's always looking for ways to share the fruits of his labor. With years of experience, he is the go-to guy for questions about buildings, design or even the easiest way to shear an alpaca.
